Hurricane Maria 2017-2019

- On Wednesday, September 20, 2017, Hurricane Maria slammed into Puerto Rico as a Category 5 storm.
- Puerto Rico suffered catastrophic damage and a major humanitarian crisis
- Most residents lived months without running water, electricity, internet or phone service (landlines and cell service)
- Many roads and bridges were impassable or destroyed for over a year
- The few farms on the island were destroyed, and it showed how dependent the island was on imported food that could be produced in Puerto Rico

Hurricane Maria Service Project

In May 2019, your managers and service coordinators participated in a B'nai B'rith International Disaster Relief service project at Siembra Tres Vidas in Aibonito, Puerto Rico, an organic farm in the mountains about a 90 minute drive from San Juan. This is an initiative to make the island less dependent on imported food.

Due to a lack of workers, there was a mass exodus of people from the island after the storm, and volunteer labor is critical to help these new farms plant, pick and process produce.
